

Benefits of Registered Apprenticeship Programs

For Employers

Registered apprenticeship programs (RAPs) benefit employers across Colorado. Employers can build a program customized to their specific needs, increasing retention and creating a stable and reliable worker pipeline. Registered apprenticeship is the future of work.

BENEFITS TO EMPLOYERS:

- Increase employee retention of apprentices that complete a registered apprenticeship program
- A stable and reliable talent pipeline of qualified workers
- Customized training that is tailored to industry needs
- Provides leadership opportunities to current employees, increasing their engagement as they mentor apprentices
- Enhance the skills of existing workers through apprenticeship participation, train new employees, and plan for employee succession
- A safer workplace due to the program's emphasis on safety training
- Keep employees up-to-date with industry trends, changes, skills, and technologies
- Build diversity, equity, inclusion, and accessibility by lowering barriers to access and developing inclusive practices

HOW TO GET INVOLVED:

The Office of the Future of Work at the Colorado Department of Labor provides customized assistance to employers that are interested in starting and developing a registered apprenticeship program or joining an existing registered apprenticeship program.

Connect with our Apprenticeship Team by completing this interest form or email apprenticeship@state.co.us to get started!

To explore current and future funding opportunities related to registered apprenticeship from the Office of the Future of Work, view our website.

COLORADO

Department of Labor and Employment

cdle.colorado.gov/apprenticeship